These aim trainers are pointless unless you have no ideal how to generally aim, The issue with these aim trainers is that the bots never play like online players, Some of the games your trying to train for have crouch spam and some have a fast strafing and other games focus on upclose jumpshots and there is not a single bot here that was program to give you these kinda of drills,

This game only trains you to flick and does a poor job with tracking and range drills and the bots are so basic they cant possibly interrupt your flow of aiming like real players.
